Snow Queen Reigns

Queen Jean Lindesmith

1955 Royalty Crowned By King Boreas

Jean Lindesmith, 1955 Macalester Snow Queen was crowned by King Boreas XIX of the St. Paul Winter Carnival last night as a highlight of the Variety Show in Shaw gym.

Queen Jean Lindesmith's attendants: Ann Beran, Alice Anderson, and Jeanie McKay will appear with her at all the Sno-Daze features today and tomorrow.

Jean is a Junior from Owatonna and is majoring in elementary education. She loves winter sports, especially skiing, and will eat chicken anytime. Her most thrilling experience in college so far has been seeing Mexico with the Mac caravan last summer.

The Town and Country Golf Course will be the scene of to-nights Sno-Daze activity, as the Macites take to their toboggans. Rides will be provided to the golf course, with everyone to meet in the Union at 7:15. After tobogganing, the outdoors men and women will retreat to the cafeteria for lunch, movies and dancing.

The four Sno-Daze Royalty have appeared on various TV and radio programs. Long before festivities began, KSTP-TV took newsreel movies of the queens romping in Winter Wonderland itself. Stu Mann's radio show on WTCN followed with the queens talking over the program. The next host to the royalty was Jack Thayer—WTCN-TV.

Roberta Kay To Play At Polar Paradise

Polar Paradise, the theme of this year's formal dance, will climax Mac's annual Sno-Week at 9 P.M. Saturday.

Roberta Kay and her orchestra will provide the music for all Mac couples in the Cochran Lounge.

The cost per couple is two dollars, with no flowers required. Refreshments will also be served in the cafeteria during the evening.

During intermission, Barney Bear in person, will present the trophy for the snow sculpturing. The queens and attendants will also be presented with gifts.
